

Fire Awareness Training

Regulatory Compliance

Fire Safety Training is a key factor to managerial compliance with the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 (Article 21).

Requirements

All staff should receive fire safety training both during the induction process and annually thereafter.

The training should include a basic understanding of fire, an awareness of fire precautionary measures and the actions to take on finding a fire or on hearing the fire alarm sound.

We work closely with clients to ensure that fire safety training needs are met in the most cost effective and economic way. Safetyform Consulting have delivered fire awareness training for both larger corporations and smaller businesses all taking advantage of the skills, experience and knowledge of our trainers who have worked as operational officers and trainers within the Fire Service and who are able to deliver training which is regulatory compliant, interesting, interactive and above all will train delegates to the highest available standards.

The Solution

Safetyform Consulting deliver a Fire Awareness Course designed for all members of staff. This course will provide employees with greater fire safety awareness and is designed to increase their confidence in the action to take in case of a fire occurring.

The course includes:

1. The theory of combustion
2. Causes of fire
3. Fire growth, spread and propagation
4. Fire safety awareness and fire precautions
5. Fire safety provisions
6. Evacuation strategy
7. Fire extinguisher safety and use (theoretical)
8. Live fire extinguisher use (additional).

The Result

Course delegates will have an awareness of fire and its impacts on safety and fire spread. Delegates will be aware of the actions to take on finding a fire, the applied evacuation strategies and how to use a fire extinguisher in a safe manner.

We are committed to and passionate about securing fire safety and because of our Fire Service background our experience, knowledge and skill, we are able to work closely with clients to ensure all fire safety training requirements are met and the regulations fully complied with.
